Creative Direction, Content & Brand Experiences

Selected work for Chargetrip

I build cultural brands through content, design and public experiences

My practice combines creative direction with hands-on production. I develop visual identities, content formats and campaigns, then coordinate the people and practical work needed to bring them into public space.

I work across culture, graphic design and technology. My strongest projects connect a recognisable visual language with community participation and measurable audience growth.

RELEVANT STRENGTHS

Creative direction
Content strategy and recurring formats
Creator and partner coordination
Motion, video, print and live production

GLINA³ Building a brand from launch

ROLE

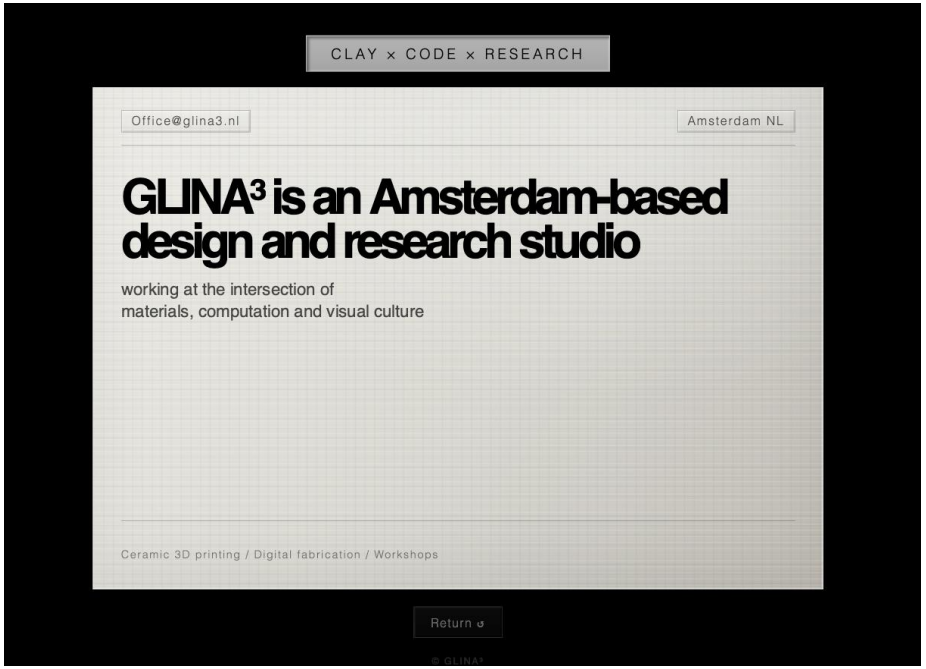

Creative Direction & Content Lead, Co-founder

CHALLENGE

Introduce ceramic 3D printing to audiences beyond a technical niche without losing the studio's experimental identity.

RESULT

Created the brand position, visual identity, tone of voice and content system across Instagram, TikTok, Pinterest and the website.

A repeatable content system for a technical studio

I translated printing tests, production failures, archive research and finished objects into formats that audiences could recognise and follow over time.

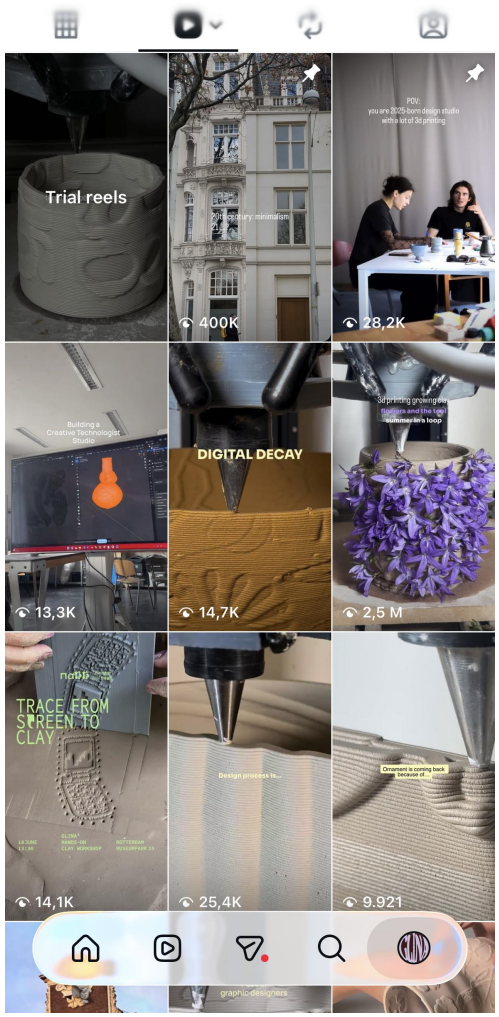

FORMAT LOGIC

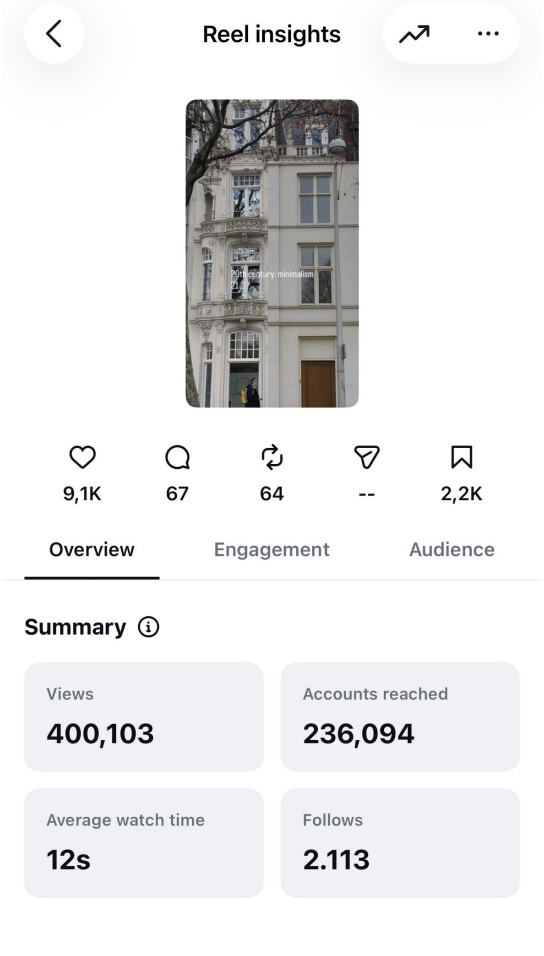

Process content explains how objects are made. Educational posts make technical choices accessible. Product and event stories convert attention into visits, inquiries and collaborations.

Organic growth built through clear formats and cultural relevance

0–7,200

Instagram followers from launch

2.6M

Views on one Reel

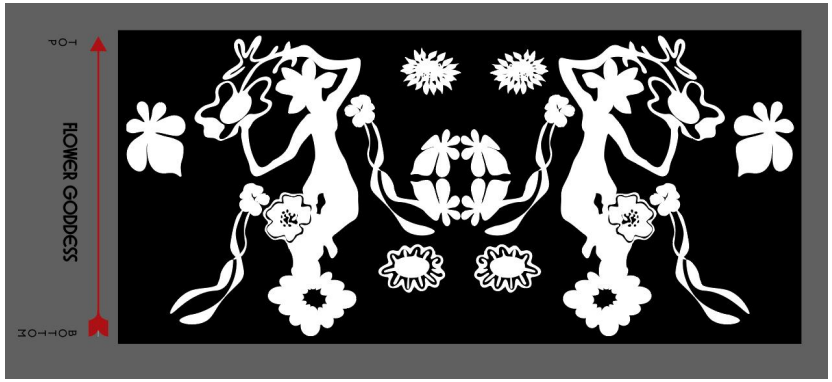

150K–300K

Typical monthly reach

700K

Peak monthly reach

I reviewed performance and audience behaviour to distinguish short-lived reach from content that generated saves, conversations, inquiries and repeat attention.

The identity extends from screen to object and event

GLINA³ operates as a studio, production service and cultural platform. I developed a visual language that could hold these functions together while remaining flexible across packaging, printed communication, installations and social media.

MY CONTRIBUTION

Art direction, packaging layouts, campaign assets, exhibition graphics, copy, launch planning and coordination with collaborators.

GLUE × DANTE6
A brand activation across fashion, design and nightlife

ROLE

Creative direction, campaign production, window graphics and partner coordination

CONTEXT

Three-day Amsterdam design event at DANTE6, 17–19 September 2026

BUDGET

€20,000

Creative direction continued through live delivery

I coordinated the people, materials and timing needed to move from campaign concept to a working public programme. The activation combined design presentation with music, performance and creator communication.

RESULT

Delivered a coherent three-day brand experience across physical space and digital communication while managing the full €20K project budget.

Social Media & Visual Content Designer | Marynka Piano Music

Visual Designer & Content Producer

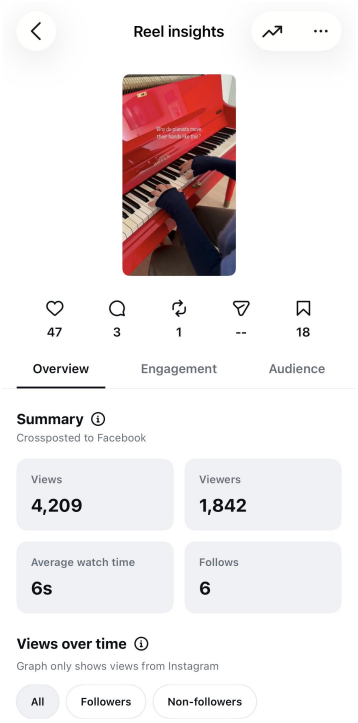

CHALLENGE

- create a recognisable digital presence for an independent musician with a limited image archive and production budget;
- created visual campaigns for concerts, releases and collaborations across Instagram, LinkedIn, Meta and email;
- designed posters, carousels, short-form videos, motion assets, newsletters and website graphics;

RESULT

Redesigned the visual identity and developed repeatable social formats that moved the account from paid support toward consistent organic reach.

MARYNKA MARYNKA

Motion and editorial formats made the practice easier to follow

I developed concert announcements, educational Reels and music-led edits that work even when the available photography is inconsistent. Typography, timing and repeated structures give the account continuity.

3,000

Organic page views per week after reducing reliance on paid promotion

TOOLS

After Effects, Premiere Pro, Photoshop and Instagram analytics, Newsletter in Adobe InDesign

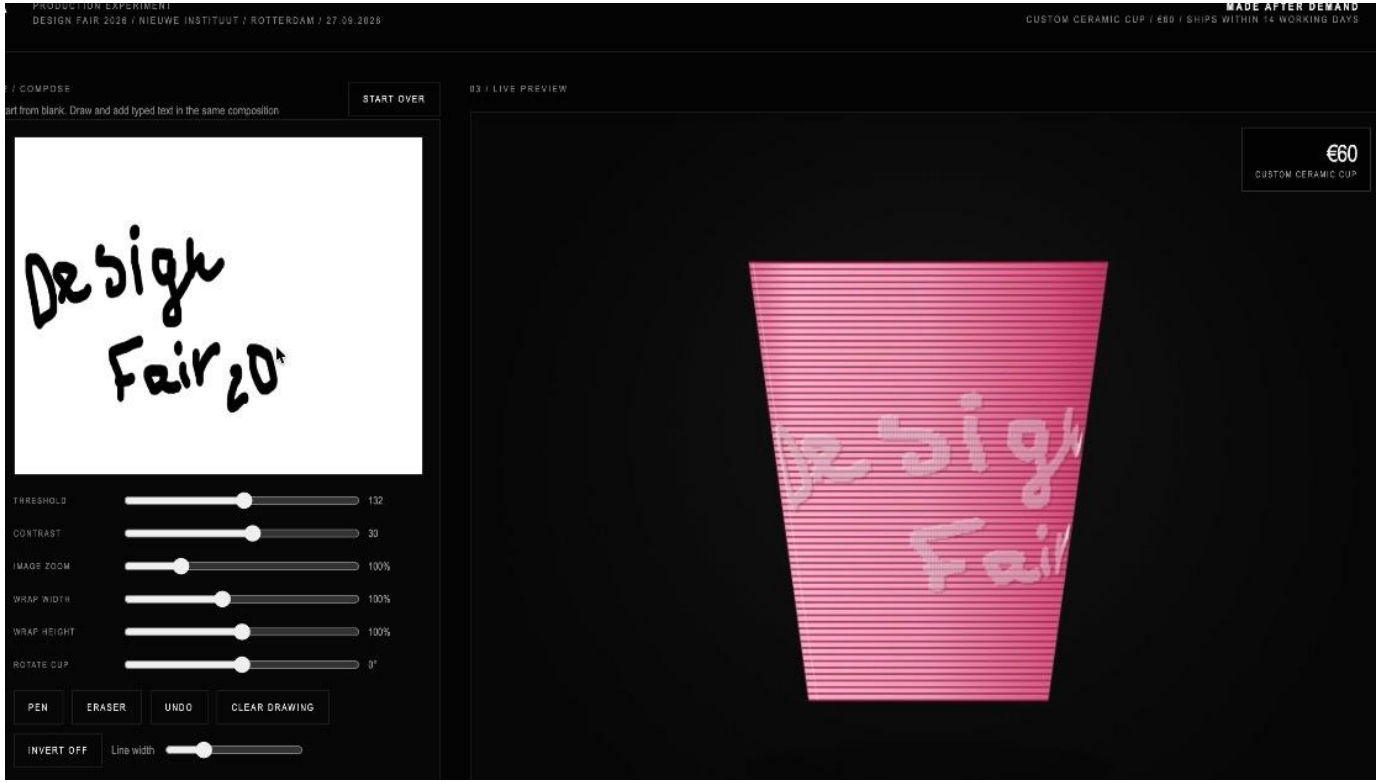

AI as a method for visual research and rapid comparison

I use generative tools to test visual directions, compare interpretations and produce material for discussion. The work depends on source research, prompt development and selection. AI supports the process but does not replace authorship or production decisions.

APPLIED IN

Archive-based image studies
Campaign and object prototyping
Website experiments
Motion and interaction tests

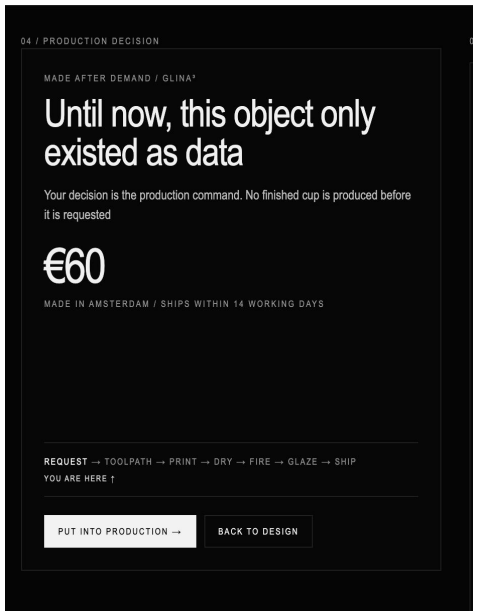

Made After Demand
A game-like experiment about digital choice and material consumption

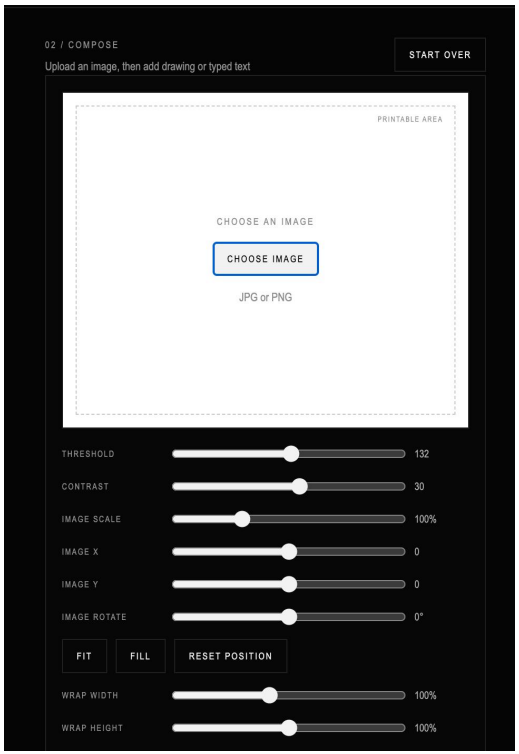

ROLE

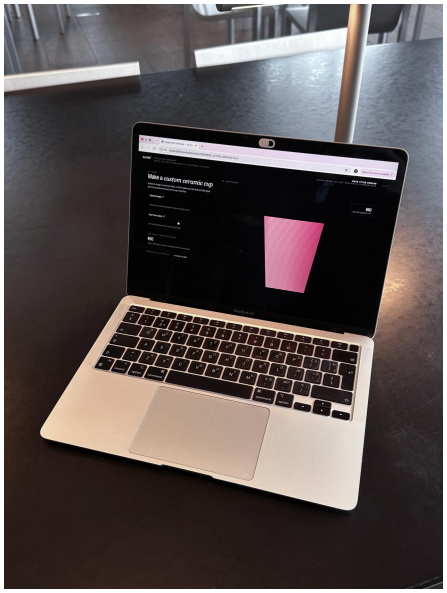

Concept, visual direction, copy and AI-assisted web prototyping

QUESTION

What changes when a digital preference becomes a physical object only after someone asks for it?

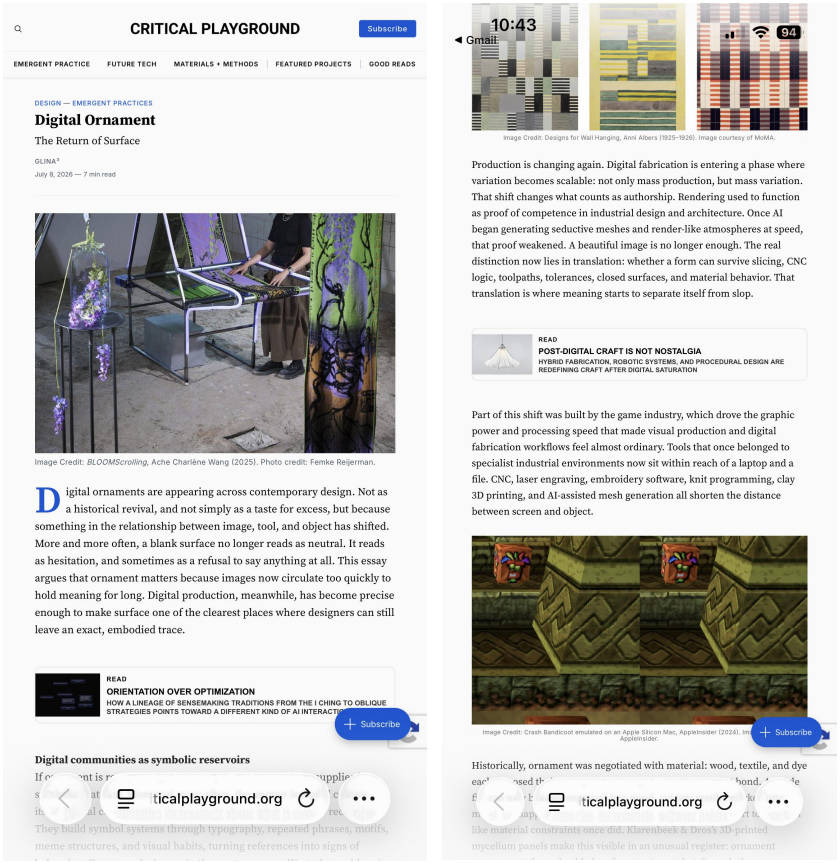

The interface turns an abstract argument into a public action

Visitors move through a short sequence of choices and see how their digital traces can shape a material proposal. The project uses play to open a conversation about overproduction, authorship and demand-led manufacturing.

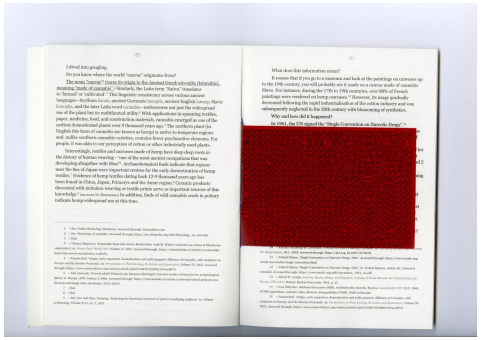

PUBLIC FORMAT

Prepared for presentation at the Nieuwe Instituut Design Fair in Rotterdam. The website supports both individual exploration and conversation in the exhibition space.

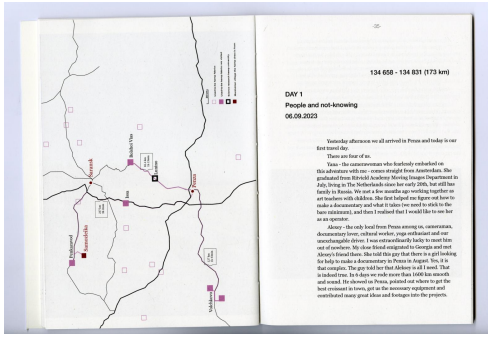

InDesign selected projects

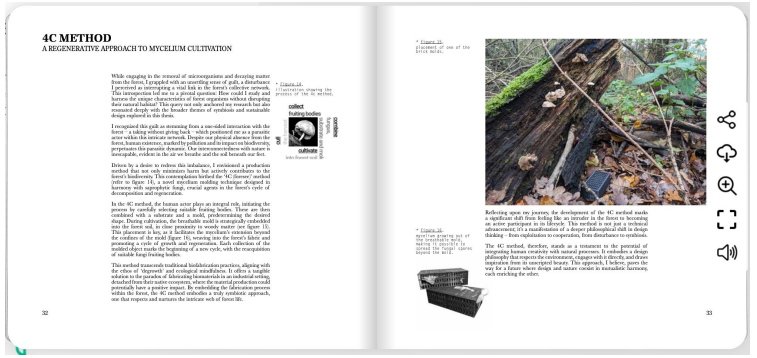

Digital Ornament: The Return of Surface — Designed and produced a digital editorial publication in Adobe InDesign; developed the layout and typographic system and coordinated images, captions, credits and contributor materials.

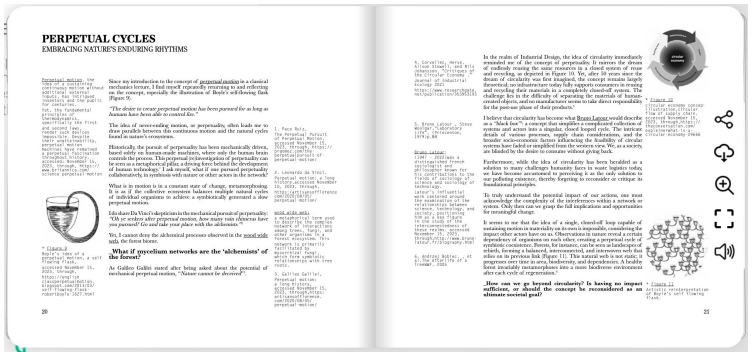

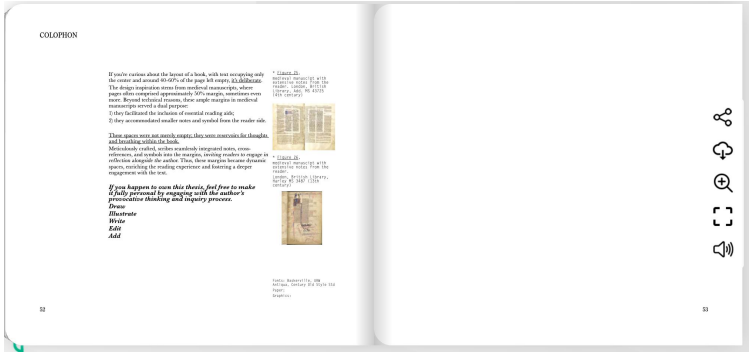

Art thesis publications

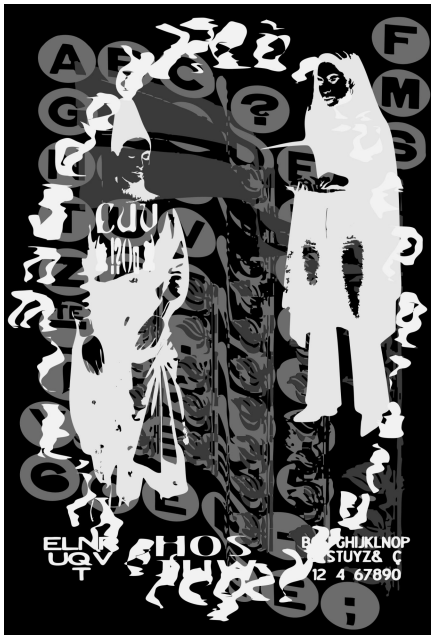

Science thesis publications

Typography Loomscapes From museum archive to woven surface

For a collaboration with Industriemuseum Gent, I translated archival textile and typographic references through generative image studies (Midjourney AI) into digital patterns.

ROLE

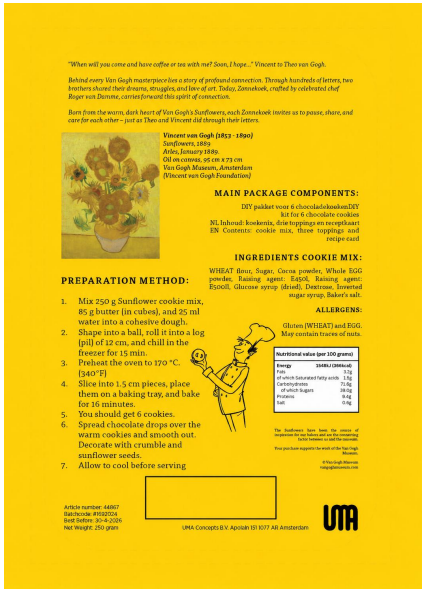

Archive research, visual experimentation, pattern development and coordination with museum and technical staff

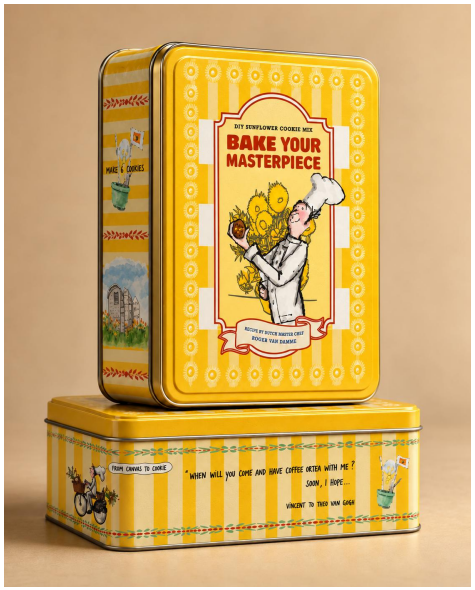

OUTCOME

Work is connecting industrial history with contemporary image culture

Selected graphic design Packaging and identity

Brand applications developed across cultural retail, independent products, music and material design.

CONTRIBUTION

Concept development, typography, colour systems, packaging layouts, production files and presentation mock-ups

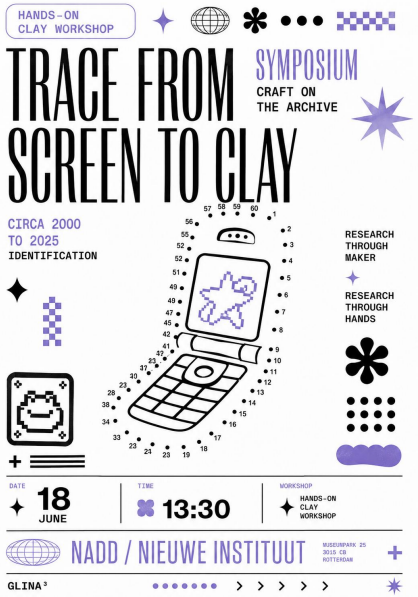

Selected graphic design Posters, publications and motion

Communication materials for art institutions, exhibitions, education and independent cultural projects.
